

Direct email

Your message sent directly to the Inbox of the candidates of your choice!

Email is the most direct way of communicating with potential candidates. We will send your email – in your style and as if it were from you – to a target group of candidates. You can select these candidates based on the whole range of search possibilities offered by the CV search engine (region, experience, training, language skills, etc.).

You have full control over the content and layout of this email.

After the email has been sent, you can obtain detailed statistics each day.

Example

